

THE PRESIDENT'S COLUMN

Thirty years, a long time? Perhaps to some people, but to me these thirty years since I was elected President in August 1956 during the annual reunion at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington, D.C. have passed by rapidly. There is no way that I could recount many of the important occurrences during these thirty years; some of you who have been on the mailing list these years have seen our association grow, both in numbers and as a genealogical source. I believe it was with the advent of our BULLETIN that we have been able to provide good genealogical services for our members.

These have been enjoyable years for me, but frustrating in some respects. Frustrating for the most part because I have not had time to do the research which I would like to do; the necessary correspondence for the association has prevented this.

Now as I retire from the presidency I want to give my best wishes to the new administration. With the BULLETIN in the hands of Jim Kehew as a very capable editor, I'm confident that our association will gain in stature as an association which promotes both sociability and genealogy.

So it is not a farewell that I give you, but a "move over for the next president". May this association grow in numbers and in genealogical interest for the sake of not only ourselves but for future generations.

J. SPENCER OVERHOLSER

It was with much regret that Leo and Phyllis Wastler of Wastler Escorted Travel of Mechanicsburg, Pa. had to cancel the tour of Overholser Family Assn. members and friends that was to go to Europe June 14-27, culminating in a visit to the village of Oberholz in Switzerland, the home of our member Rosy Oberholzer. Only 10 reservations were received, not enough to make the tour economically feasible.

Your Editor worked closely with the Wastlers in promoting the tour and had the opportunity to observe the tremendous care and expense they went to to make the tour unforgettable. Their extensive and meticulous planning went far beyond what a typical travel agency does, even to the extent of furnishing names and addresses of Oberholzers in the vicinity of Oberholz to tour participants to correspond with in advance and then meet at a banquet while there. We can only hope that such a tour may materialize at some future time, perhaps in conjunction with a related family group. Our thanks go to the Wastlers for their superhuman effort in planning and promoting the tour.

Meanwhile we have heard of two similar tours held this summer. One was a family group of Overholts from the area of Doylestown, Bucks County, Pa. who were to visit Switzerland and Oberholz in the latter part of June. The other was led by Delbert Gratz, librarian at Bluffton College in Ohio (a Mennonite institution), who has taken 15 groups to Germany in the past. This was a 3-week journey leaving from Toledo and also visiting Oberholz. Among the group of 30-some was J. J. (Hannes) Oberholzer, our member who is Director of South Africa's National Museum, as well as John and Peg Overholt of Kilmarnock, Va. who were combining the tour with a visit with their daughter, Regina, who is a civilian computer programmer with the U.S. Army in Zweibrucken, Germany. We trust both trips were a success.

THANK YOU, GENE!

As mentioned in the last BULLETIN, Eugene Singer, a member in Palm Springs, Calif., is now furnishing the mailing labels for the newsletter. He has entered the Association membership list in his computer and runs off the labels in zip code sequence, which is how we have to bundle and mail them under bulk mailing regulations. All this at no cost to the Association!

If you steal from one author, it's plagiarism; if you steal from many it's research. -- Wilson Mizner

THANK YOU!

A short business meeting will follow, including minutes of last year's get-together by Secretary Ellen Livinood, Treasurer's Report by Marjorie Carroll, Necrologist's Report by Robert M. Oberholser, a report of the Task Force, followed by nomination and election of officers, highlighted this year by the retirement of President Spencer who has been our leader for 30 years and who, along with his wife Ruth, has been the dynamic force that has kept the Association going. Ruth will then lead us in the singing of the Reunion Song just before adjournment.

Come and join in paying tribute to Spencer upon his retirement from active duty.

Genealogical Query

CHRISTIAN OVERHOLT -- A CHRISTIAN OVERHOLT received a warrant for 100 acres of land in Milford Twp., Bucks Co., Pa. on 30 Jan 1739 which had been surveyed on 27 Nov 1738. In 1850 he sold this land to one John Frick who obtained a patent for it. I have never been able to identify Christian. An entry in the Pa. Archives concerning 2,000 acres belonging to Joseph Growdon which is near this survey states that on Dec. 11, 1719 "Martin Overholts, with some Palatines desires to purchase about 50 acres there" may have some connection with Christian. OBERHOLTZER -- Two burials at the Saucon Mennonite Meetinghouse cemetery near Coopersburg, Lehigh Co., Pa.: GEORGE OBERHOLT born or died (there are 2 versions) 27 Aug 1801, age 3y, 3m. WILLIAM H. OBERHOLTZER b. 8 Feb 1806, d. 25 July 1893. (He was a brother to JOHN H. OBERHOLTZER of the Mennonite Schism of 1847 fame.) My presumption is that George, William H., and John H. above, are children of ABRAHAM (1775-1855) and SUSANNA (HUNSBERGER) OBERHOLTZER and am seeking evidence to support this assumption. THE "OTHER LINES"

As regular readers of the BULLETIN know, a little over half of our 400+ members trace their ancestry to Immigrant Samuel Oberholtzer who arrived in America in 1727. In the past few years, more and more members who are descended from other Oberholtzer/Overholser ancestors have been joining the Association. We thought it was time to recognize these other groups -- and asked those researching these families to introduce us to them. -- Editor

1. Samuel Overholtzer, the ancestor of Helen Overholser Turn (Mrs. Wayne) of San Angelo, Tex., is believed to have come to this country with his father, Jacob Oberholtzer (1704-1755), in 1732 at the age of 3 on the ship Samuel. He married Maria Eva Hauswirth in 1765 in Lancaster County and moved to Virginia where he raised a family of 5 daughters and 3 sons. Peter stayed in Virginia but his children moved to Ohio, Samuel and Jacob moved to Tennessee.

In 1981, Mrs. Turn published the results of her research in the book, SAMUEL OBERHOLTZER OF VIRGINIA AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS (Centex Press, Belton, Tex., 365 pp.). She is still trying to fill the gaps in her family's history. Her address is 2310 Rio Grande, San Angelo, Tex. 76901.

2. Another branch of the same family is one that has been researched by Grace Overholtzer Milligan (Mrs. L. C.) of Kansas City, Mo. It is descended from the same Jacob Oberholtzer who came to America in 1732 on the ship Samuel, bringing with him his 3-year-old son Samuel, and daughter Elizabeth, age 6. Jacob remarried in America and the subject of Mrs. Milligan's research is a son of this union, Christian (1741-1819), half-brother of Samuel.

Mrs. Milligan estimates there are probably 7 branches of the family with several thousand descendants scattered over the United States. Some of them hold a reunion every August in Tingley, Decatur County, Iowa. It was started in 1925 by John E. Overholtzer with 150-200 attending in the early years. Association member John F. Oberholtzer of Tingley serves as a contact with the group. He and his wife have visited Rosy Oberholzer in Oberholz, Switzerland.

Christian married Christina Musselman and they spent their lives in Adams County, Pa. where they are buried in the Carrollsburg Cemetery. The Adams County Historical Society reports there are headstones pertaining to 40 Overholtzers in that county's cemeteries.

The result of Mrs. Milligan's years of research is a manuscript now at the publisher's entitled CHRISTIAN OVERHOLTZER AND HIS FATHER JACOB. It will be around 400 pages, hard cover, cross-indexed, and available in August. For copies, write to Mrs. Milligan at 7511 Oak St., Kansas City, Mo. 64114.

3. The Fredericksburg, Pa. Oberholtzer Association -- Our first known ancestor was Martin Oberholtzer (1733-1815) who married Anna Frantz (d. 1800) -- both buried in the Grove Mill Cemetery near Fredericksburg, Lebanon County, as well as many of their descendants. The Association has just finished restoring this cemetery and is now trying to locate the descendants of the other surnames buried there: Meyer, Grove, Meily, Strohm, Young, Krieser, Miller, and Gible.

Other than his will, not much is known about Martin's parentage or early life in Pennsylvania. Speculation suggests his father's name may have been Jacob. At the time of his death, however, he was quite wealthy, owning a substantial amount of land.

Martin and Anna had 5 children:
Christian (1766-1834) m. Christina
Funck, Maria/Mary (1769-1806) m. John

Meyer, Jacob, Barbara (1776-1854) m. John Meily, and Anna.

Today his direct descendants number 570. A record of their full names, date and place of birth, death, marriage and likewise for their spouse and children has been compiled through 9 generations to the present, including the current mailing addresses of those living. Copies of this 170-page record will be available to order by Sept. 15 for $15.

The Association is non-profit and operates solely on the voluntary contributions of its members. A reunion is held annually the third Saturday of September, at the fire hall in Fredericksburg, located on Rte. I-78 north of Lebanon. Family members are located and have attended from California, Tennessee, Florida, Maryland, New York, Wisconsin, and Idaho as well as the Lebanon and Fredericksburg areas.

4. The Overholt Group This line descends from a Marcus Oberholtzer (1664-1725) who arrived in America in 1710 on the ship Mary Hope and settled in Kenilworth, Coventry Township, Chester County, Pa. One of the line's most active researchers, John L. Overholt of Kilmarnock, Va., is on a combination research/vacation trip to Europe this summer during which he hopes to discover where Marcus came from. By the fourth generation, the name had been shortened to Overholt. John estimates there are about a dozen branches of the family. Twenty-nine members of the Association are in the Overholt line.

Marcus and his wife Elizabeth had 5 sons and 2 daughters. The lineage of the fourth son, Martin Oberholtzer (1709-1744) and his wife, Agnes Kolb (1713-1786) is outlined in detail in the 350-page hard-cover book, OBERHOLTZER AND NASH FAMILY HISTORIES by Rev. A. J. Fretz, originally published in 1903 and reprinted last year by the Westmoreland-Fayette Historical Society whose headquarters are at the Overholt homestead and distillery in western Pennsylvania. It is available from the Society, West Overton, Scottdale, PA 15683 for $20.00 plus $2.00 postage and handling. A 40-

The Association publishes a newsletter annually in July. Of interest to many is a brief 3-page pedigree of Martin's descendants for easy comparison of the different lines for $1.00 (included free with each book order).

To order any of the above material or for further information contact Luanne Loeffler Hanks, 803 East First, Glens Ferry, Idaho 83623.

We are grateful to the O.F.A. for this opportunity to join with others in this united effort to try to link our lines together. Our Association was so pleased to have Spencer and Ruth Overholser and Jim Kehew attend our Reunion last fall and commend them for their tireless efforts and example in genealogical research.

LUANNE HANKS

page article by John Overholt to be published in a forthcoming issue of PENNSYLVANIA MENNONITE HERITAGE will elaborate on the descendants of Marcus Oberholtzer.

A sizable number of Overholts, being staunch Loyalists at the time of the American Revolution, fled to and settled in Canada. An Overholt graveyard of 245 graves was torn up by heavy agricultural machinery about 1950 and an Overholt ghost is supposed to haunt a 22-room house near Fonthill, Ont. near Niagara Falls.

A group of southwestern Michigan Overholts hold a reunion every August near Grand Rapids and there is talk of starting one at the distillery/museum at Scottdale, the original site of the manufacture of Old Overholt Rye Whiskey.

Among the most active Overholt researchers besides John Overholt are Milton Blanding of Stanton, Mich., Barbara Ford of Wallingford, Pa., and Eugene Singer of Palm Springs, Calif.

If readers know of other lines of Oberholtzers, the Editor would be most happy to hear about them for a future issue of the BULLETIN.

MEMORIES OF ANOTHER
OBERHOLTZER REUNION

The 88th Reunion of the Oberholtzer families who migrated to Indiana was held on Sunday, Aug. 18, 1985 at the Spencerville, Ind. home of Max and Dorothy Markle.

Weather improved after the meal and chairs were placed under the trees where a short business meeting was held. A paper on the beginnings of the Reunion which had been prepared for the 50th Reunion in 1947 was read. My recollections go back to 1912 and come partly from asking my grandmother many questions.

When my grandfather, William Oberholtzer, and his wife Tillie (Matilda) came west they settled in Springfield Twp. of Allen County in the northeastern part of Indiana. One of the first things Grandfather did was help the other men organize a Lutheran church. They met for a while in a barn until they were able to build a white frame church building which I remember well because I attended as a small child.

In 1896 they invited all the relatives who lived close enough to bring a basket of food and come to Grandfather's for the day just to visit. They had such a good time they made plans to meet again each year and try to get others to come. From that beginning it has continued each year. The original reunion was held on Saturday but during World War II the change to Sunday was made so that men working in factories could attend.

It quickly grew as most had large families and for many this was the only time they would see each other. Grandfather died soon after and it was carried on by my grandmother with the help of others. Generally we met in her yard and tables were set up between two rows of trees which stretched out to the road. Children sat on the ground on horse blankets which sounds like fun except that the trees were cedars and pine.

400 ATTEND OBERHOLTZER REUNION

A reunion of descendants of III Samuel/IV Samuel Oberholtzer was held June 15 at Daniel Shirk's farm near Newmanstown, Lebanon County, Pa. with around 400 in attendance. They are members of the Old Order (Horning) Mennonite Church (Weaverland Conference), and many are from the Lebanon/Lancaster/Berks County area. Others from Mennonite settlements in Missouri and New York were also present. A family-style dinner was served and there was singing, volleyball, swimming and quoits. A daughter of the Shirks was married the day before the Reunion. A history of this branch of the family is contained in the book, OBERHOLTZER FAMILY HISTORY, 1802-1968, compiled by Levi and Lizzie Oberholtzer of Gorin, Missouri.

MICHIGAN OVERHOLTS GET TOGETHER

A group of around 50 Overholt family members are holding a Reunion on Sunday, Aug. 10, at Rex and Marilyn Overholt Willson's farm outside Middleville, Mich. They are mostly descendants of Rufus and Jacob Overholt.

It wasn't long until each woman was known for her special dishes. My mother was known for her hot buttered corn cut off the cob from freshly picked sweet corn. There were always large sliced tomatoes in her basket too and this was a treat for those who lived in towns. How I remember a Hattie Oberholtzer who came with freshly baked blueberry or huckleberry pies and a big freezer or two of ice cream.

As the years passed the children and their children moved away until only a few descendants live in the area today. My husband and I were not the oldest to attend but almost, and we did drive up from Florida. There were only four of us in the oldest generation of living descendants of the founders.

TOURETTE SYNDROME AND MENNONITES

Recently we heard from member Mrs. David Overholt Stevens of Houston, Tex. about the disorder Tourette Syndrome (TS) which affects one of her children. She enclosed an account of research into the causes of TS at the Univ. of Rochester (N.Y.) Medical Center by Dr. Roger Kurlan and Jill Behr, R.N., with whom she had corresponded. Since TS is not well known and may have implications for some of our members, we have adapted the account here.--Editor

Tourette Syndrome is a neurological disorder whose symptoms first occur in children usually before age 7. It masquerades as a nervous twitch, a learning disability, or an extremely short attention span. TS children are labeled as problem children -- but they are not mentally unbalanced, not retarded, and not acting out psychological problems. There are estimated to be as many as 3½ million TS sufferers -- both diagnosed and undiagnosed -- in the U.S. Boys are 7 times more likely to develop it than girls. It is currently believed to be the result of a mild chemical imbalance in the brain and appears to be hereditary in many cases.

The symptoms may range from very mild tics (involuntary muscle "twitches") to more severe motor, vocal and behavioral symptoms. The most common motor symptoms include rapid eye blinking, shoulder shrugging, facial twitches, head, arm or leg jerking. These are often mistaken for "nervous habits", which worsen under stress and which may also disappear for brief periods of time. Vocal symptoms often accompany the motor tics and most often take the form of involuntary grunting, sniffing, and throat clearing. Stuttering, repetitive or uneven speech rhythms are also seen. In more severe cases, there may be loud outbursts of sounds or words (sometimes obscene words). Behavioral symptoms may include hyperactivity, impulsiveness, imitating gestures and movements of others, or obsessive-compulsive behavior. A person's intelligence is not affected by TS.

TS has often been misdiagnosed because of unfamiliarity by health professionals. It is possible for a person with TS to suppress or hold back symptoms. While it may pose only a minor nuisance to some persons, others are more significantly bothered by it. Misdiagnosis can lead to social rejection by peers, teachers, undeserved punishment by family and the development of poor self-esteem. There are a variety of medications which can be helpful in controlling the symptoms; however, their effectiveness can vary widely from one person to another.

A few years ago Dr. Kurlan and his staff became aware of a very large Canadian Mennonite family in which many members were affected by TS. They have visited them to interview, examine, videotape, and draw blood samples from affected, as well as unaffected, family members for the purpose of locating the genetic factors or genes responsible for the transmission of TS to one's children. If the TS gene can be located, it will help in the development of more effective treatment and more accurate counseling.

Upon reading about this research, several concerned families, including members of the Overholser Family Association, reported to Dr. Kurlan that they or some of their family were affected by TS. He was interested to learn that some members of the Association are Mennonite and wondered whether the TS gene might be more prevalent among Mennonites in general or whether members of the Assn. may somehow be related to the Canadian Mennonite family studied. This is why he is very much interested in hearing from other members of the Assn. who might recognize TS symptoms in themselves or family members.

If you have information you feel might be helpful to Dr. Kurlan or have any questions about TS, you are urged to write or call him collect at: University of Rochester Medical Center, 601 Elmwood Ave., Box 673, Rochester, NY 14642, phone (716)275-5130 or (716)275-7937. For additional information about TS, you may contact Tourette Syndrome Assn., 41-02 Bell Blvd., Bay-side, NY 11461, (718)224-2999.
